The Prospective Husband	-	Eddie Lyons
The Bride-to-be	-	Charlotte Stevens
The Happy Husband	-	Wm. J. Irving
His Wife	-	Lillian Hackett

The Story

Eddie, the prospective hubby, is furnishing his home. Piling his car with goods and chattels he starts on his way and drops them halfway. Arriving at his new home he hunts for his furniture and while doing so the young bride living next door, who has been reading of burglars in the district, and imagines the plumber to be one, rushes out and begs Eddie to help her as there is a burglar in her house. She insists on going back to town with Eddie, as her hubby is away for the night and she is afraid to stay alone.

Eddie gets a flat tire - in trying to fix it he makes all four flat. A storm comes up and they are obliged to take refuge in the ramshackle hotel nearby. The proprietor and his wife take them for an eloping couple and lock them in their room. They escape, only to be caught by the Sheriff who has been notified by the proprietor. They are locked in jail for the night. The Sheriff is taking no chances so he sleeps outside their cell - stretching he unconsciously allows Eddie to get the keys and they again escape.

Meanwhile Hubby has finished his work and has called on Ma-In-Law to drive him home to Wifey. But no Wifey greets him. After an all-night search during which time they have no luck, Hubby paces the floor and on coming on the porch he sees his wife with Eddie. Wifey tells him Eddie drove her home from the train, but Hubby reminds her it is not due yet. She then says she stayed with Mother all night, but Mother walks out of the bedroom. Just then the hotel proprietor comes up with a long gun and says they stayed at his hotel all night and he wants to be paid. Eddie tries to explain, but is silenced. The Sheriff next arrives and says they are the elopers and he arrests and handcuffs them. Eddie's fiancée and her Mother arrive and the mixup is at its height when Eddie at last is allowed to explain matters. All is at last right and when Eddie and the wife try to go to their loved ones the handcuffs won't let them. The Sheriff and proprietor are rambling way down the road in their Ford so Eddie and his fiancée and the Newlyweds go after them frantically yelling to try and attract their attention.
